

(Image: Sharp Contrasts—target practice at 2000 meters, the Alps.)

A Way of Looking . . .

Seen from the perspective of the Whole,
war is always but the left hand of humanity
fighting against the right;

Seen from the perspective of Compassion, war is not two sides, but rather
two rooms in but one house, now burning itself to the ground;

Seen from the perspective of Intelligence,
war is perpetually unnecessary conflict.
Name one thing humanity needs more,
than less of unnecessary conflict.