

(Image: Cornice flowforms, after Spring storm—the Alps)

With enough time, simplicity always unfolds—without limit—into natural complexity. Sustain a single vowel sound for the duration of an entire breath, and you will become aware of the rich weave of its overtones; Walk the smooth white surfaces of high mountain spring snow, and you will discover an infinity of living textures beyond all compare.