

In Complementarity, movement strives naturally not so much to the opposite extreme, but to the balance of the dynamic mean. In balance is the transcendence of duality.

The way of masculine force and control always moves in a straight line. For it, the slow, feminine curves of the meadow meander are just a waste of time.