

Leaves

Perhaps leaves fall simply to carry away all that we thought we needed to say.

And perhaps trees in this way purify themselves each year, knowing that there is no thought so large that it cannot be written on the smooth, plain surface of but a single leaf.