

(Image: A Balance of Extremes: Sow Thistle (Sonchus asper)—a weed introduced from Europe)

Imagine Nature reduced to a barren place filled with straight, dry, brittle stems covered from root to crown with prickly thorns.

Some would say:—That is what we ourselves become once we lose the essential complementarity of masculine and feminine principles.