

If Religion and Metaphysics are to mean anything, . . .

they should help us age not merely as an ever-larger and more burdensome collection of broken parts, but rather with the slowly increasing wisdom of a tree which holds the complexity of the centuries within ever-clearer, simpler and more beautiful structures.